MRS. T. C. LEWIS TAKEN SUDDENLY

Well Known Woman of Hardinsburg and Wife of T. C. Lewis, Who Survives Her With One Son—She Had Many Lovely Characteristics.

Hardinsburg, March 4.—(Special)—On last Friday evening, March 1st, at just a little after 9 o'clock, Mrs. T. C. Lewis (nee Miss Ena Vessels) passed out of this life, quietly, as she had lived.

Mrs. Lewis' health had not been good for some time, but the evening the end came she had been out to see her sister, Mrs. Gary, and seemed so happy, even more like herself than she had for some time. She went home only a short time before her husband and son. When they got there she was lying on the bed asleep in Jesus.

Mrs. Lewis was born January 6, 1855, in Marion county. Since her marriage she has lived in this town. She was a great home body, but was never too busy to do a neighborly kindness, a sick friend was never neglected by her.

She was a devoted member of St. Romauld's church, always, when she was able, filling her pew at every service.

The funeral services were conducted at the church Monday morning at 9 o'clock by Rev. James F. Norman in the presence of many sorrowing friends and loved ones.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. T. C. Lewis, three sons, James Lewis, who has been a devoted son, always lived at home; J. C. Lewis, her closest neighbor; Wave Lewis, of Continental, Ohio; Miss Esther Lewis, who is now Sister Maurine in St. Peter's Parochial School, Louisville, and her only sister, Mrs. Bertha McGary, who is our faithful telephone operator for the country line.

"Call not back your dear one, Aeneas safe where storms are o'er; On the border land we left her, Soon to part no more. When we leave this world of charges, When we leave this world of care, We shall find her waiting In our Father's Mansion fair."

Wealthy Bachelor Succumbs To Nervous Break Down.

Mr. Tom Ryan, a wealthy bachelor and a native of Tobinsport, Ind., died Feb. 16, Hot Springs, Ark., as a result of a nervous break down.

The remains were sent back to his old home and were interred in the Tobinsport Baptist Cemetery last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Ryan was forty years of age and was the son of the late Dan Ryan of Tobinsport.

When he was seventeen years old he left home and never returned even for a visit. During his absence of twenty-three years he accumulated a vast amount of worldly wealth. He owned a picture show house in Denver, Colo., called the Famous Beauty Palace, and it is stated that the building was all that the name implied. It was known as one of the finest movie houses in the West.

Mr. Ryan is survived by two brothers Mr. Dan Ryan of St. Louis, Mo., Mr. Geo. Ryan of Perryville, Mo., to whom he left his fortune.

Parrish-Wheeler Wedding.

Rome, Ind. Mar. 2, (Special)—Miss Eda Parrish of Tobinsport, and Mr. Bert Wheeler of Rome, were quietly united in marriage at 5 P. M. Tuesday Feb. 26, at the home of the Rev. S. T. Thompson of 2510 Frankfort Ave., Louisville, Ky.

Miss Mary Parrish sister of the bride was the only witness present.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Parrish of Tobinsport, and is a charming and accomplished young lady.

The groom is a prosperous young farmer of near Rome and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cassin Wheeler of that place.

They will make their home on a farm at Tobinsport.

"OUR AWFUL AUNT" CLEVER COMEDY

Presented by Junior Class of C. H. S. Before a Packed House. Amateurs Play Their Parts Well. Net Proceeds Amount to $40.

"Our Awful Aunt," a clever two act comedy presented by the Junior class of the Cloverport High School, Thursday evening, at the American Theatre, before a packed house, reflected credit both to the actors and their director, Mr. G. R. McCoy, the superintendent of the Cloverport Public School.

The gist of the play was how an old maid aunt, who made the annual unwelcome visit in her sister's home and immediately upon her arrival goes about to reform her young nephew, who has fallen into evil ways. Her efforts are crowned with success, much to the joy of the household and thus redeemed herself in their eyes.

Miss Louise Weatherbolt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Weatherbolt, played the part of "Our Awful Aunt" very gracefully. She was well supported by the other members of the cast who were: Misses Lora Carson, Chloa Mae Seaton, Cecil Jolly; Messrs. Celestine O'Connell, who is quite talented for taking minstrel parts, Alfred Wroe, Julius Hardin, Joe Ballman, Curtis Weatherbolt and Willie Seaton, substituted for John Duke on account of the death of the latter's sister.

Between the two acts, twelve of the grade girls dressed in blue costumes with red ribbons, gave a pretty flag drill carrying Old Glory and the allied flags.

The play netted $40, which will be used in financing the High School Annual.

Prominent Hawesville Woman Passed Away.

Mrs. Aurelia Hawes Carlton, a life long resident of Hawesville died at her home in that city, Feb. 25.

The funeral was held Wednesday at the Hawesville Presbyterian church of which the deceased had been a member for twenty-nine years. The interment followed in the Hawesville cemetery.

Mrs. Carlton was fifty-five years of age and the only child of Mr. Wm. F. and Anna McAdams Hawes. She is survived by four children: Miss Susan Carlton of Hawesville, Mrs. Joe C. Conger and Mr. Jas. Carlton both of Cruger, Miss., and Mr. Hawes Carlton of Detroit, Mich.

House-keepers Please Notice.

The Food Administration urges all housewives who have not already done so to sign the Food Pledge at once. Also that the rules for conservation shown on the new Kitchen Cards be carefully observed by all. For card and information apply to Miss Elizabeth Skillman, of Cloverport, Ky., who is County Chairman Conservation Division of the Food Administration. This is very important and should be attended to immediately.

Yale Man Graphically Describes Fight With U-Boats.

Convoys Accounts for Several German Submarines While Traveling to War Zone.

East Haven, Conn.—How the convoy in which he traveled to the European war zone with the Yale unit accounted for several German "subs" is graphically described by a letter to relatives by Lauren Lyman of this place.

"One night as we were below, fixing our bunks," he says, "we heard the whistle and then the sharp note of the engine. We shouted, 'the subs are here,' and leaped to our posts. I had been appointed a stroke oar in a lifeboat, and our particular gang, 26 in number, were counted by our white-faced lieutenant.

"Our ship began to zig-zag, and, through a port I saw a destroyer rushing along toward a white streak in the water. Suddenly something happened aboard the destroyer—a volume of water rushed in the air directly in its wake. There was a heavy explosion, and one more sub had gone to the happy hunting ground.

"The next morning our bugle again blew 'to post' and our guns on the port side cut loose. In less than no time our whole fleet, transports and all, were blazing away, zig-zagging and rushing in all directions. We had plunged a whole school of subs, and instead of zig-zagging our boat, plowed right into them.

"At one time the ship next to us and our boat were shooting into the same center and it looked like a battle between the two ships. I saw three periscopes myself and one cut its way so close that our forward gun could not be brought to bear.

"One torpedo missed our bows by less than 30 feet. At the same time we could see land ahead.

"While this was going on three airplanes appeared. How we shouted when we recognized their nationality. Soon they were swooping down like hawks, dropping bombs and marking out the places where the Boches lay.

"It was simply great. I felt just as I did before the touchdown against Harvard last year. At one time four big guns on our boat were playing awry at the same time.

"Finally at ten o'clock the whistle blew, and our first big fight was over. Nobody scratched and from three to five Boches went to hell. There were from 9 to 12 of them waiting, and, believe me, they got all they wanted.

"If we'd only had a band the morning would have been complete."

Gypsies Turn to President When Deadlocked on King.

Wrangling Over Election of Successor to Late Ruler, They Adjourn Without Making Choice.

Berkeley, Cal.—The Gypsy world has a new potentate. He is President Woodrow Wilson. To him fifteen hundred representatives of the wandering tribes have pledged their fealty.

Assembled to elect a king, they have split up into factions and are wrangling over the candidate who shall succeed his late Majesty Alexander, who died several months ago at Sacramento.

But while undecided as to whom they should choose to pledge their allegiance, the Gypsy delegates are united in the admission that no matter how strong may be their attachment to kingly rule, they and their sovereign must bow to the president of the United States.

In automobiles, in Pullman palace cars, in buggies and wagons and old "prairie schooners" the Gypsies came from all parts of the country. For weeks they have been loitering in northern California.

Queen Mary, widow of the late king, objected to the balloting for his successor, claiming that she was entitled to rule. The necessity for having a male hand at the helm was pointed out. Then there arose Michael Adams, sixteen-year-old nephew of the deceased sovereign, but the leaders proclaimed him but a boy.

"A man must rule," became their slogan.

"Woman has the vote. Why should woman not reign?" said the queen.

Agreement was impossible, and the Gypsies decided that there could be no lawful selection of a new ruler until the body of good King Alexander should repose in an appropriate mausoleum. A large delegation picked their tents, started their automobiles, "checked out" at their hotels and departed.

A WARNING TO FARMERS

Sent by Rep. Cain who was Urged to do so by the Commissioner of Agriculture. Only 10 per Cent Seed Corn Show Germinating Power.

Frankfort, Ky., Mar. 2, 1918. The Commissioner of Agriculture in a recent address to the Legislature urged each member to warn the farmers in their respective districts of the necessity for testing their seed corn.

He stated that the tests made so far of the 1917 crop revealed a most alarming condition in that only about 10% of the seed tested showed germinating power.

He urged growers who had supplies of 1916 crop to advertise and offer some for sale and that all who offered seed of either crop see to it that their offerings were sound.

He said that test after test had been made of as fine appearing corn as ever grew with the result that 90% of said corn was sterile and did not sprout.

Do not plant a grain of the 1917 that has not been tried for germinating power is his warning. Respectfully, Roy J. Cain.

STRINGTOWN ON THE HILL.

The Prettiest Spot on Earth and Has About 500 of the Best People in Good Old Breckenridge.

Stringtown-on-the-Hill is a beautiful little village overlooking the placid Ohio, and has a population of about five hundred. The residences are mostly all modern and are well filled with bright healthy children who amuse themselves making mud pies in wet weather, and during a dry spell, they sift sand and play snakes.

Her streets are fairly well kept, especially Picadilla Lane, that leads toward Balltown. Pennsylvania Avenue and Bois de Bologne are in need of some repairs.

Stringtown has a magnificent school building with a big bell that tolls the knell of parting day, and chimes at the coming of the morn, and a corps of handsome teachers, that is, the feminine contingent. She has about half dozen societies, but has no Secret Society on account of there being no mutes in the community.

When it comes to music, Stringtown has Vienna skinned a block. From the mocking-bird and the robin to the night-hawk and phonograph and about fifty pianos, you can sit and dream at even'tide and listen to a rich Hungarian rhapsody, and as the sweet notes vibrate o'er the hills and peaceful valleys wafted by a rose-scented breeze, you are suddenly aroused by a shrill scream of the night-hawk or the wheezy sounds of a phonograph grinding out After the Ball or Mary and John, or some other popular air of many years ago. So it is you have a varied program to select from.

The men, as a rule, are industrious and always on the move. They play marbles in the summer, and raise big crops the rest of the year.

Quite a number met Monday night at Steve Wilson's store, situated at Picadilla Lane and Scott Avenue, and organized the Stringtown Farmers Union for the purpose of holding out for better prices for their next winter's crop. Much interest was manifested in the meeting and the following gentlemen were present: Steve Wilson, Lon Ray, Simon Beavin, Thos. Downs, Joe Allen, Hardin Kinder, Thos. Satterfield, Chas. Campbell, Jess Miller, Dick Perkins, Len Taul, Peyton Scott and Sam Wheatley.

Officers were elected as follows: Peyton Scott, president; Steve Wilson, secretary, and Jess Miller, treasurer. Forest Freeman and Jess Weatherholt made application for membership, but were rejected on account of being non-residents of Stringtown.

Such is life in Stringtown-on-the-Hill, the home of yours truly. —Muffett.

Farmers Suffer in Classification

The charge that skilled farm laborers are not properly classified by local and district draft boards is made in a report of the military committee of the Federal Board of Farm Organization, which has been submitted to the Provost Marshal general.

"By the classification recently issued the Government has announced its desire that skilled farm workers, farm foremen and bona fide farmers shall remain at work upon the farm because that is where their best service can be rendered," the report states. "Numerous cases have come to our attention where the intentions of the Government are being defeated by the arbitrary rulings of local and district boards not in conformity with the official classification."—Farmers Home Journal.

RADIUM IS NOW OFFERED TO ALL FOR RHEUMATISM

This Great Curative Property
Can Now Be Tried at Home
By Anybody.

Radium is one of the most efficient curative properties for rheumatism known to medical science.

But—
Radium treatments in the past have been enormously expensive and the cost has prohibited the average man or woman who suffered from rheumatism from trying it. Either the sufferer had to journey to some hot springs to drink the water containing the radium emanations or go to an institution known as an "Emanatorium" where the radium treatment was taken by inhaling the gas—or emanations—given off from a quantity of pure radium.

Now, however, the radium treatment is not expensive. Sufferers from rheumatism can try radium right in their own homes and the cost is no greater than the cost of ordinary medicines.

The manufacturers of Tanlac, the most widely known general system tonic in America, have placed a medicine for rheumatism on the market and it contains radium.

Tanlac Rheumatism Treatment, under which name the new medicine is being introduced, is complete. It consists of a tablet for internal use and a medicament for external use. Each of the tablets for internal use produces four "nache" units of genuine radium emanation.

If you suffer from the aches and pains and twinges of rheumatism get Tanlac Rheumatism Treatment today and get a real medicine for this dreaded complaint. You can get Tanlac Rheumatism Treatment at any good drug store where you get Tanlac, the famous tonic.

School News and Views.

By J. R. Meador, County Superintendent.

Every teacher should begin now to make plans to attend the Kentucky Educational Association which meets in Louisville, April 24 to 27.

From all reports there has never been a time when good seed corn was so scarce as it is this spring. Owing to the unusual amount of sap in corn last fall the extremely cold weather has killed the germ in practically all of last year's crop. Teachers in every school district should urge all farmers to test their seed corn before planting time, and should arrange to assist the farmers in making the test. The "Rag Doll" tester should be used because it is simple and better. The opportunity of the teacher in any community extends far beyond the mere instruction of pupils in the three "R's."

The money for the sixth month is long past due from the State, but has not yet been received. Immediately upon its receipt at this office it will be mailed out to teachers whose reports are in.

Some few teachers are rather careless about making out their monthly and term reports. I half suspect that the same teachers are careless in their method of teaching. The law says every blank on these reports must be filled. It is the duty of the trustee and the chairman to refuse to sign them until every blank is filled.

It is our intention next year to put special stress upon the teaching of language and reading. There is much more to be taught in the reading class than to simply have the pupils stand and read in their turn. When reading is properly taught the teacher will find that the pupils make much more satisfactory progress in the other branches.

Following is a list of questions based on Turner's Teaching to Read, one of the Reading Circle Books. By means of these questions test your familiarity with this excellent book on the teaching of reading.

1. State fully the plan and purpose of Turner's Teaching to Read.
2. (a) What is the simplest problem of expression in reading?
(b) Explain why we have so much trouble with incorrect emphasis in the reading class.
3. Discuss the problem of grouping.
4. Give some of the main points under "Studies in Contrast."
5. Discuss briefly cultivation of the imagination.
6. Discuss briefly "Interpreting the Spirit of the Selection."
7. Explain how you would bring out the thought value of words.

Raise More Hogs Is Nation's Call to You, Mr. Farmer

OUR Country is Meat-Poor, Mr. Farmer. Not only are our own people crying for meat, but the whole world is crying. Never before was there such a meat shortage.

Our brave boys "over there" as well as our allied armies, and their starving women and children, must have meat. And they are looking to the American Farmer to supply it.

Helping to Win the War

You hold the key to the situation though, and we are to help you.

This is no time to hesitate nor hold back. We can't say: "Let George do it." It is up to you and to us to do our part. We must produce as well as conserve, in food.

Come, let's be patriots to a common cause and resolve to do our very best in the production of pork this year.

Very few farmers in all the world possess the advantage that you have in this this section, not only to produce more pork, but to produce it at such a low price and such a good profit.

With our help you can produce pork at less than 8 cents a pound. We are helping others to do it and can help you. And we are ready to give you the facts and figures.

There's going to be more money in hogs this year than ever. And of course you want to make the money as well as to help your country win the war. Call or write for full particulars.

Burks, also being the Briley corner and marked by a stone and two beeches on an East hillside, marked "X," on plat; running thence N. 78 degrees 30' E. 82 poles to a sugar tree and beech near the base of a high cliff; thence S. 10 degrees 30' E. 87 poles to a stone in a bottom; thence N. 74 E. 100 poles to a pile of stones between two beeches standing about 18 feet apart; thence S. 10 degrees 30' E. 102 poles to an elm and stone, Basham's corner; thence with his line N. 88 degrees 45' W. crossing Town Creek at 24 poles to another branch at 75 poles and a high cliff at 98 poles, in all 126 poles to a bickory on a flat, Basham's corner, to his second tract; thence with another of his lines N. 67 degrees 30' W. 74 poles to a gum on a hillside; thence S. 34 degrees W. 11 poles to a stone corner to Basham & Powers; thence N. 16 degrees 30' W. 18 poles to the county road; thence with the road N. 22 degrees 30' W. 30 poles to a stone on the top of the hill on the North side of road; thence with the road N. 23 W. 18 poles N. 44 W. 8 poles to a white oak, N. 65, W. 18 poles to a white oak on North side of road, N. 85 W. 15 poles, S. 85 W. 20 poles to a limestone rock in the county road, Powers' corner, thence with Dutchie's line N. 59 degrees 30' W. 21 1/2 poles to a locust, Addison's corner; thence with his line N. 12 degrees 30' W. 23 poles to a stone and beech; thence N. 63 degrees 30' E. 29 poles to two ash and sugar trees on the West side of the branch; thence N. 40 E. 11 poles to a dogwood and large gum; thence N. 87 E. 13 poles to a large dogwood; thence N. 49 E. 40 poles to an elm and cliff; thence N. 83 E. 12 poles to a sugar tree, redbud and elm; thence S. 66 E. 14 poles to a beech near fence; thence S. 30 degrees 30' E. 8 poles to the beginning, containing 231 1-10 acres.

Also, the following parcel of land which is the right-of-way over Barkley & Miller's land, and which right-of-way extends from said 231 1-10 acres to the Hardinsburg and Stephensport road, which right-of-way was conveyed to the defendant, Russell D. Hamilton by Joe Stewart and wife, on the 27th day of September, 1915, by deed recorded in said Clerk's office in Deed Book 63, page 454.

Said right-of-way being particularly described as follows:
A certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in the County of Breckinridge, State of Kentucky, about one-half mile from Stephensport on the Hardinsburg and Stephensport road, and beginning on the West side of said road at the line between Barkley & Miller, and running Northerly with said road 8 feet; thence in a Westerly direction parallel with said Barkley & Miller's line to a branch, a short distance East of James Miller's West line. Also, a parcel of land South of Barkley & Miller's line and conveyed by said Miller and wife to Joe Stewart a particularly described as follows: Beginning on the West side of said road at the line between Barkley and said Miller and running Southerly with said road 8 feet, thence in a Westerly direction parallel with said Barkley & Miller's line to a branch; thence in a line more Southerly direction to a point, said Miller's West line 16 feet South of said Miller's North-west corner.

Said parcel having been conveyed to Joe Stewart for the purpose of a road, the said Miller, however, reserving the right to use said road as an outlet from his stable and barns to the public road; said Joe Stewart, in said conveyance, having agreed and bound himself to put up, at his own expense, a good and substantial picket fence four and one-half (4 1/2) feet high, on the line between him and the said Barkley; and, also, a good and substantial flat and wire fence between him and the said Miller.

There is excepted, however, from the above tract of 231 1-10 acres above described, 19 acres, the same 19 acres heretofore sold to John Basham by deed of date March 14, 1918, recorded in Deed Book 59, page 12, in the Clerk's office of the Breckinridge County Court. Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. For the purchase price, the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a Judgment Lien, retained to secure payment of purchase money.

Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.
Approximated debt, interest and cost $13,824.24
Lee Walls, Commissioner.

SPRING

Enjoy the spring of love and youth,
To some good angel leave the rest:
For time will teach thee soon the truth,
There are no birds in last year's nest.

A WASTE OF MATERIALS

A recent proclamation from the President requires that the breweries be allowed to use only 70 per cent of food stuff in manufacturing malt liquors and the temperance beers.

While this recent statement will save the cereals to a very great extent, yet there are those who are in favor of eliminating the manufacture of beer entirely during the course of the war, then when the war is over it is hoped national prohibition will be effective.

At present, the Food Administration is asking us as a people to observe the meatless and wheatless meals. The response has been universally pleasing. No one complains of making the sacrifice if it will help win the war. But at the same time the breweries are consuming several million bushels of cereals and several thousand tons of coal in manufacturing their product, which is a non-essential.

One way of helping in trying to conserve the materials used in manufacturing of beer is to appeal to your Congressman.

Any person who is anxious to have part in this matter, may have free upon request--by writing or calling at the Breckenridge News office--a printed card which is addressed to "My Congressman" and fully explains your attitude, and requests him as your representative in Congress to take some definite action in stopping the wastefulness of these materials.

The best thing for our home merchants to do is to make a big drive on spring advertisement. The farmers have the money to spend and all they want to know is where to go to get the things they want. And they will never know our merchants have any spring stock unless they tell it. Don't let the foreign advertisers take away the trade that rightfully belongs to you.

We sold an iron bed and mattress last week by advertising it in the classified want column of our paper. We merely mention this to prove that The Breckenridge News Classified Want Column WILL SELL things if you will only give it a chance. Just try it and see for yourself.

Springtime makes you have the good road fever. What we want to see is not the fever, but some good work on the Hawesville, Stephenson and Hardinsburg Pike roads. Why not have another good roads day like we had last May?

Read our new serial story, Long Live the King, by Mary Roberts Rinehart. She is the most popular writer of the day and a mother with two sons in the service of our country. The story begins in this issue.

Cloverport is needing a real estate agency to build homes in our town. New railroad men are coming in all the time but they are unable to find homes to bring their families here.

Perhaps the farmers will have to appeal to Uncle Sam with their labor problems. He is able to solve all the difficult problems save the weather.

The Breckenridge News has fifteen efficient correspondents who are giving us "all the news that's fit to print."

The sunshine is as welcome as the daffodils of March.

Russia has at last consented to Germany's peace terms.

FARM AND STOCK.

Win the war by preparing the land, sowing the seed and producing bigger crops is the message of the Food Controllers of the United States and Canada to win the battle for liberty. They say every available tillable acre must contribute and every available farmer and farm hand must assist.

Word comes from every section of this county that the wheat crop never looked better and the prospects are fine for a bumper crop. W. R. Moorhead, Sr., was down at his place Saturday and reports the crops in that section the best he ever saw. Herbert Beard, of Beard Brothers, have in 300 acres. He says their crop from present indications will yield 5,000 bushels.

Farmers were never more active in getting ready for spring work than they are this spring. They are buying freely of all farm equipments, mules, harness, plows, seeds and seed corn. So if there is anything in getting ready we are sure to have a bumper crop of everything in Breckenridge the coming year. Arthur Beard sold over $300 worth of mules and horses, cows and calves to farmers last Friday and Saturday.

There was a farmers meeting at Irvington Saturday to discuss the seed corn situation. County Agent Harth met with them. They decided to send samples of their corn and have it tested before planting.

Don't neglect your orchards. Right now is the time to prune and spray for a sure crop of fruit. A fruit crop is just as important as any crop on the farm. It is not a great problem now to grow apples with all the help you can get from the Government just for the asking.

We bought a barrel of apples last fall from G. P. Maysey, proprietor of the Orchard Home Farm near Stephensonport. We put it away in our cellar and opened it last week. There never was a nicer barrel of apples grown anywhere than this barrel. They were winesaps, beautiful color and size, and just as good as the day they were packed. Mr. Maysey pruned and sprayed, and every apple in the barrel was perfect. What

Mr. Maysey has done with his orchard, others can do.

S. H. Robbins, of Ammons, went to Ekron Friday. While there he bought a Ford.

Will Dutschke has traded his storehouse and stock of goods at Ammons to W. L. Bellou for his farm.

Charley Payne and son, Marvin Payne, of Lodlburg, went to Louisville Friday. Mr. Payne has a positing with Belknap & Co.

Jesse L. Clarkson, of Irvington, did some good farming last year for a man of his age. He had in 3 1/2 acres of tobacco that brought him $1,450; sold $1,000 worth of hogs in twelve months from two sows; sold $500 worth of cattle, besides his wife sold $100 worth of turkeys. Pretty good for a youngster of 72 years.

Earl Bennett has sold his farm of 400 acres, near Basin Springs, to Jonas Lyons for $14,000.

Len Taul bought the following crops of tobacco in the McQuady neighborhood last week for John Akers: Charlie Miller, 25,000 pounds; Thomas Miller, 10,000; Luther Miller, 10,000; John Miller, 12,000, at $16 round. Buck Senton, 5,000 at $15.50, delivered at Hardinsburg.

"Uncle" Bert Cunningham, of Chenault, was in Hardinsburg Saturday attending the County Board of School Trustees. "Uncle" Bert is an enthusiastic school man, and is always ready and willing to help the good work along and never fails to attend a meeting. He says he picked up the other day on the river bank a fine relic. It was an Indian tommyhawk that weighed five pounds in perfect condition and the largest he ever saw.

In speaking of his grandson, Lamar Gardner, Mr. Cunningham said he was in Youngstown, Ohio, owner of a Dairy Lunch stand and feeds 2,000 people a day who are employed in a big steel plant. Says he is doing fine and making money.

John Weidman, a weather prophet of McQuady, says we will have 35 more frosts between now and June 1. There were 40 due from February 22, and that five have already passed.

A farmer near Eola, Missouri, has a set of twins the like of which, says our Dumb Animals, few persons outside of stockmen have ever heard of. They are twin colts, one a mule and the other a horse. The explanation for such a freak of nature is very simple and easily understood by stockmen, and yet there are few who have ever seen such specimens in the animal line.

J. C. Watlington, of Lodlburg, was in Hardinsburg Saturday.

I. J. Muckenfuss has a big Government contract for hickory spokes. He is delivering them to Garfield. Says he has trouble in getting hands to get them out.

J. T. Bryant, owner of the Green Hill Poultry Farm, McQuady, writes us to discontinue his advertisement. That he has sold all his hens and had to return $150 in checks that he could not supply. See what a little ad in the Breckenridge News will do. It pays.

Mules were booming at Mt. Sterling, Ky., last week. Demand greater than the supply. Fifteen-hand mules sold at $200 and 15-hand pairs sold at $400, 15.3 at $500 and 16-hand at $550.

About October 1, 1917, butter was selling in Berlin at $2.25 per pound, sugar at 56 cents per pound, and ham and bacon at $2.11 per pound. This information was received by the U. S. Food Administration through a reliable source.

Tobacco was in good demand on the Louisville market last week. All grades were steady with a slightly upward turn. New Burley sold up to $47.50, with the majority of the sales above the $25 mark. New dark at several of the houses sold up to $19. One sale of six bbls. was made at from $24 to $40, another of six bbls. ran from $22 to $30, another of four, from $25.50 to $47.50, another of four, from $25 to $30.

Black Bess, blk m 7, son of Washington Denmark--Patsy Morgan by Silver King, C. V. Robertson, Hardinsburg, Ky., $240.--Lexington Horse Sale.

Every horse will work better and longer if given three ample meals daily; plenty of pure water; proper shoes sharpened in slippery weather; a blanket in cold weather; a stall 6x9 enough room to lie down; a fly net in summer; two weeks vacation each year.

Capt. Carrigan is doing some good work on the Hardinsburg and Garfield pike. He is dragging and rounding up the grades and making a beautiful road of it. The Captain surely knows how to make a good road.

Illinois farmers are said to have lost

$2,000,000 in hogs during the big January freeze, and W. F. DeLong, a Boyle county, Ky., farmer had 72 out of a herd of 80 hogs to die of lung fever.

G. B. Cunningham, of Chenault, is advertising in this issue 100 bushels of good seed corn for sale. If you need seed corn better order at once.

C. B. Carden, miller and stock dealer in Fordsville, will move to Hartford to run his 250-acre farm just across the river from Hartford. He has bought a house and lot from Ernest Woodward, attorney, for $2,000. His son will run his mill in Fordsville.

Mr. Coomes, of Daviess county, who bought a farm near McQuady, says Breckenridge county farmers raise more hogs, cattle, sheep and mules than they do in Daviess county.

The seed corn situation, says the Farmers Home Journal, is a matter of grave concern to those who have given the matter serious consideration, and that unless immediate steps are taken to help the farmers secure enough seed for this year's planting, the result will be a short corn crop.

B. M. DeJernette and G. A. Wright, of McQuady, were in Louisville last week buying farm supplies. Mr. Wright bought a load of stock cattle.

Flintmore Johnson, living near Frymire, had three-quarters of an acre in tobacco which brought him $360.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Woodrow Wilson left for their new home, the Dito farm, last Monday. A host of friends in Breckenridge county follow this young couple with their best wishes for success in their new home. We know that they will succeed if hard work and close attention to business means anything. Paul Wilson is a splendid young man and Mrs. Wilson is a splendid woman, an honor to any community. Meade county is to be congratulated in securing them as citizens.

Ernest Popham, a hustling young farmer of near town, while burning a plant bed last week, sprained his right ankle by a heavy log rolling against it. Mr. Popham says that great preparations are being made for a big crop in his neighborhood this year.

Thos. Beard sent a sample of his seed corn to Lexington. It tested out 90 per cent good.

Exceptional Beauty

POWER, speed, comfort and high economy the Grant Six has always had—but to all these the new model adds a degree of beauty never before attained in a popularly priced car.

In giving the Grant Six its new and pleasing lines and in refining the car mechanically, Grant designers and engineers have produced what is unquestionably the finest car of its size and price ever built.

The three features for which the Grant Six has become nationally known—overhead valve engine, cantilever rear springs, full-floating rear axle—will appeal to every motor-wise purchaser.

Owners average 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline and 900 miles to a gallon of oil.

The price, $1055, f.o.b. Cleveland, makes this new Grant Six the car which the spirit of the times demands.

HILL ITEMS

One taper lights a thousand;
Yet shines as it has shone;
And the humblest light may kindle
A brighter than its own.

—Hezekiah Butterworth.

Mr. Charlie Jackson, who has been confined at the Missouri & Pacific Hospital owing to the loss of his finger, is much improved. He is fortunate in having friends, who have entertained him in their homes. He was the guest, last week, of Mrs. T. J. Wine, also Mr. and Mrs. Cliff McClannahan. Mrs. Jackson went to St. Louis, Saturday, but it is not known whether she will be allowed to bring him home now.

Miss Vera McGavock, of near town, was the guest last week of her aunt, Mrs. Bandy.

Mrs. Anna Harrell, of Stephensport, was the guest, last Monday, of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Satterfield.

Mr. Lawrence Carroll has moved into the Wethington heirs property and Mr. Frank Oelze, from off the pike, has purchased the Carroll place.

Miss Iva Wine returned to Tobinsport, Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. McKinney for a week's visit.

While in town last week, Mrs. Earl Fella, of Holt, was up to see her aunt, Mrs. Julia Wood.

Halbert Perkins, of Dayton, Ohio, came on Thursday for a two weeks visit to his sister, Mrs. Rob Wilson, and other relatives.

Mrs. Nat Tucker returned from West Point, Saturday, where she has been with her daughter, Mrs. Carl Lishen, who seemed somewhat better.

Mrs. Vernon Milburn and children, Raymond and Osborne, have returned from Owensboro, where they had been to see their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lynch, prior to Mr. Lynch moving to Patesville, where they are going to satisfy Mr. Lynch's father, who is very old and longs for his old home.

Notwithstanding the severe winter, our apples kept without freezing and with only a very few to show signs of rot. Now comes the bad part—we ate the last of them the 1st day of March.

The hill seems to be a desirable place to live. We met three persons in one afternoon looking for a house.

FRYMIRE.

L. S. Brashear went Monday to Hardinsburg to be examined for military service.

Jimmie Noble, of Webster visited friends and relatives in this neighborhood last week.

H. E. Frymire and son, Junius Miller Frymire, were in Hardinsburg last week on business.

H. C. Dodson left last Sunday for California after spending the winter with his mother, Mrs. Mary Dodson.

Mrs. George Hester and two children, of Ammons, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gus Barger.

Mrs. R. Bruner and son, Owen, and Payton Brashear visited Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Brashear recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Avitt and daughter, Reba, and Jimmie Noble spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. C. L. Dodson and Mr. Dodson.

Mrs. C. C. Grant and granddaughter, Ruth West, who have been visiting her son, Claud Grant, of Arkansas, for the past month, returned home last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Barger and daughter, Mary Lena, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. Bruner.

Misses Adell and Mary Frymire, who are attending school at Hardinsburg, spent the week end with their aunt, Mrs. Ed Shellman.

Nap Robertson, of Lodiburg, spent the week end with his son, M. J. Robertson, and Mrs. Joe Robertson.

Alex Barger has bought the Courtland Crosson property in Union Star and will move his family this week.

Mertis Severs closed his school here last Tuesday. Mr. Severs has taught an excellent school and is liked by all the pupils. The visitors and pupils received a nice treat. Miss Bessie Lee Brnshear received two books for the most headmarks and for attending school every day. Miss Mary Lena Barger received a box of pencils and a book for the most headmarks in her class and attending school every day. Miss Irene Johnson, a box of stationery for the most headmarks in her class.

Roff

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Mattingly spent the week end in Louisville shopping.

Boulder Butler and Miss Jennie Butler spent Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Henninger.

Miss Gertrude Butler made a business trip to Kingswood Thursday.

L. D. Tucker has recently moved to his farm purchased from J. W. Mattingly.

Clarence Nobelett who has been seriously ill is convalescent.

A wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walker, Sunday Feb. 24, when Miss Delphine Walker and Mr. Arthur Harper were united in marriage by Rev. Sullivan of Kingswood. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy voyage together.

Henry Henninger who has spent the winter with his mother will return to Illinois next week he expects to be called to Camp Taylor soon.

Miss Daisy Tucker, Mook was the guest of Miss Jennie Butler Saturday night and attended the young supper given by Miss Bessie Galloway.

Misses Mary and Gertrude Butler entertained a number of friends to a musical recital Friday night.

Gilbert Galloway and Bruce Pullin were called to Camp Taylor Tuesday.

His Sacrifice.

"Are you reducing your expenses, Bill?" "Indeed I am. A man can't stand this high cost of living on the salary he gets. I've cut out the wife's weekly matinee, countermanded her new suit, discharged the nurse, made the kids give up moving pictures and ice cream, stopped the high-price milk for the baby and chloroformed the cat to save its living expenses. But if this sort of thing keeps on I may have to stop buying cigars and stop my club dues."

JACKIES MUST SPRUCE UP

Those Given Shore Leave Must Be Properly Dressed and Must Have Money.

Grant Lakes, Ill.—Orders issued by Lieut. Com. A. C. Wilhelm, drill officer, specify that jackies granted shore leave hereafter shall wear only regulation blue clothes and "pamenko" hat. And the clothing worn must be clean and unwrinkled.

The order bars the following: Gray, brown and blue nonregulation sweaters and mufflers. Such articles of clothing may be worn if tucked out of sight under regulation garments. Watch caps are barred.

Under another order no man may go ashore "broke." He must convince his commanding officer that he has enough cash to take him to and from the station.

The clothing order is the result of many jackies appearing in Chicago and other nearby cities in nondescript clothing.

PROVE MERIT AT SHOP WORK

Women Are Better Substitutes for Skilled Workers Than Untrained Male Laborers.

Sacramento, Cal.—Women proved better war-time substitutes for men skilled in shopwork than the average untrained male laborer, according to F. H. Potter, general storekeeper for the Southern Pacific company. Experiments with eight young women put to work sorting scrap iron, cleaning bolts and familiarizing themselves with simple machinery have convinced Potter that should further raids be made upon his forces he will be able to keep going on an efficient basis by employing women.

KENTUCKY NEWS

Items of Interest From All Sections of the State

Maysville.—The Boy Scouts have begun a drive for the sale of Thrift Stamps.

Richmond.—Robert Long, Sr., a prominent and respected farmer of the Cottonburg section, is dead after drinking some home-made cider, due to ptomaine poisoning.

Flemingsburg.—Mrs. Pres Walton, aged 81 years, has knitted a sweater and sent it to a soldier. She says she worked for the soldiers in the Civil War and is glad to work for them now.

Owingsville.—James Maxey, walking around over his farm, caught his foot under the root of a bush and fell over the edge of a rock, breaking and splintering the bones of his leg just below the knee.

Carlisle.—Six citizens of Nicholas county have subscribed $1,000 each for War Savings Stamps. There are fourteen Nicholas county people who have bought from $100 to $800 worth of the stamps each. Hundreds of the people here are buying from 25 cents to $100 worth.

Harrodsburg.—Jack Whitenack, a farmer living on the Bohon pike, is lying at a local hospital in a serious condition. Whitenack was found lying by the side of the road unconscious. It is not known whether he was thrown from his buggy or is the victim of some stroke. He was badly bruised.

Mt. Sterling.—Perry Baker, whose brother, Eugene Baker, was lost on the Tusculum, enlisted in the army and demanded that he be sent to Camp Taylor at once to go into training. His explanation was that he wanted to get into action against the Germans at once in revenge for the death of his brother.

Maysville.—Louisford Gribble, 32 years old, a prosperous farmer, committed suicide at his home near Moransburg, this county, by shooting himself in the heart with a double barrel shotgun. He had pulled the trigger with a string. His wife and four children survive. No cause is known for his act.

Cynthiana.—Ed M. Hite, formerly of Paris and Maysville, now chief deputy in the office of State Fire Marshal Thomas Pannell, at Frankfort, has been investigating the mysterious destruction by fire of the Cynthiana high school building. Mr. Hite stated that in his judgment, the fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin.

Barbourville.—The grand jury of Knox Circuit Court has returned indictments against former County Judge Thomas G. Hammons and all the members of Knox Circuit Court, except E. McKeehan. The fiscal court members were indicted for alleged misappropriation of funds from a bond issue for building roads through the county.

Maysville.—Mrs. Annie Lee, sister of the late Major Horatio Ficklin, met with a serious accident that may yet cause her death. Mrs. Lee's clothing caught fire from a gas stove and the flames soon enveloped her entire body. Miss Anna Shackelford, her niece, in endeavoring to extinguish the blaze was seriously burned about the hands and arms.

Whitesburg.—In an effort to save the life of a pig, Fred M. Croyle, 31 years old, fireman for the Kentucky River Power Co., received internal injuries from which he died at the Hazard hospital. While walking along the L. & N. near Lennett he saw a pig on the track and heard an approaching train. Jabbing his tripod at the animal, he lost his footing and fell across the track.

Falmouth.—The terms of the common school are over and the teachers have to wait for their money until the question of the qualification of John E. Drake superintendent-elect, is passed on. State Superintendent Gilbert refuses to recognize the life certificate of Drake as a qualification to hold the office and refuses to pay over the school money coming from the state until the courts decide on the qualification.

Paris.—When the will of Mrs. Quincy Burgess was probated in Bourbon County Court it was found that she had made provision for the care of her pet dog during the remainder of its life. The sum of $1,000 was left for this purpose. The interest is to be used in giving the dog three meals a day, a bath and a bed to sleep in. At its death she wishes it buried beside her, a nice casket to be used, and the grave to be properly cared for in the future.

Maysville.—From 300 to 400 boys whose ages range from 15 to 17, have been employed after school hours at the tobacco warehouses placing tobacco on the sticks to be hung up. They received 10 cents an hour and worked until 9 o'clock at night.

Shelbyville.—Matthew Riddell, 65 years old, a farmer living east of town, and an unidentified white man, apparently 40 years old, were killed when a train struck a vehicle in which they were riding at a crossing four miles east.

Harrodsburg.—News was received here of the suicide of E. Driscoll at Blandenville, Ind. He was a former resident of this county, and about 48 years old.

Harrodsburg.—A number of citizens here have organized a Liberty Service League, the purpose of which is to encourage patriotism and suppress any seditious talk or act.

Somerset.—Henry Clay Anderson, who vacated the office of Superintendent of Schools of Pulaski county the first of the year, committed suicide here by shooting himself in the right temple.

Frankfort.—Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, chairman of the State Literacy Commission, has been called by the Federal Government to inaugurate a campaign to wipe illiteracy from the army and navy.

Clay.—Arrests are expected following a factional gun fight in which Frank Beadler was shot to death. Twenty shots were fired at Beadler from behind railroad cars, nine of which riddled his body.

Georgetown.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the tobacco and stock farm of Senator John Ford, near Georgetown. A horse valued at about $200, with two buggies and between 6,000 and 7,000 pounds of tobacco, were destroyed. The barn was valued at about $1,000.

Paris.—A patient in the Massie Memorial Hospital here, who was operated on for appendicitis, was discovered to be suffering from a well-developed case of smallpox. The patient was at once removed to a small out-building on the grounds and the hospital was quarantined.

Henderson.—Charles Black, a coal miner, was arrested on a warrant charging him with attempting to kill his wife and her father, Elijah Rideout. He was taken in custody six hours after he is alleged to have made his appearance at the Rideout home, when it is claimed he shot Rideout and his wife with a shot gun.

Winchester.—Willis Cason, the "hero" in an amateur negro show at North Middletown, shot and killed Will Price, who was in the audience. The "actor" was using a supposed blank cartridge, but a loaded one had been accidentally put in the pistol. The shot went wild and struck Rice in the temple.

Mt. Sterling.—Fire, originating in the basement of the Traders' National Bank Building, gutted the interior of the bank and destroyed the barber-shop of G. B. Turner, in the basement. The law offices of W. C. Hamilton and R. G. Kern were damaged by smoke. The loss is estimated at $8,000. Turner's loss is total.

Bowling Green.—W. S. Taylor, of Bowling Green, has been elected professor of agricultural education at Cornell university. He is a graduate of the Western Kentucky Normal school, the University of Kentucky and the University of Wisconsin and took a post-graduate course at Teachers' college, Columbia university.

Hartford.—Jake Smith, of near Davison Station, recently captured two gray foxes with a trap made of woven wire set at the mouth of their den. He failed for several efforts with steel traps, but finally succeeded in making the capture with a trap of his own make. They were very fine specimens, measuring three feet four inches in length.

Franklin.—J. H. Covington, Director of the War Savings Stamp selling campaign in this country enlisted the interest and aid of the two literary societies of the Franklin High School. Reports submitted show that the Woodrow Wilson Society sold stamps to the amount of $5,100, while the J. V. Chapman Society reported sales amounting to $2,900.

Covington.—Dragged a hundred feet by a motorcycle before machine was stopped, Miss Margie Slaughter, 19 years old, suffered injuries which caused her death. Miss Slaughter was on the seat behind the young man who was driving the motorcycle. Her coat caught in the sprocket of the motorcycle, which was going 20 miles an hour, and she was jerked from the seat.

Frankfort.—Mayor Noel Gaines, who is at Camp Travis, Texas, has been assigned to duty on the staff of General Johnston, commanding, with directions to organize military secret police. Major Gaines, who served with General Johnston in the Philippines, organized a secret service there and succeeded in unearthing Filipino conspiracies in Manila, and his work was known to General Johnston.

Henderson.—During an argument between Heaverin Storm, a stemming boss at the Imperial stemming factory, and Reed Hall, a negro laborer, Storm was stabbed through the neck from behind. He was taken to the hospital, where eight stitches were required to close the wound.

Paducah.—District Food Administrator John K. Macdonald, Jr., has suspended the license of W. H. Winter, a baker and restaurant owner, for 48 hours for alleged violation of rules of the Food Administration.

Bread and Beer

Six States have now ratified the national prohibition amendment. Montana is the latest to take the decisive action. The tally stands Mississippi, Virginia, Kentucky, South Carolina, North Dakota, Montana. Thirty ratifications remain to be effected. One-sixth of the road to national prohibition has already been covered. It is not without interest to remark that in the first three Legislatures to ratify the amendment the aggregate vote in favor of ratification was 333, while the total vote opposed was but 45 a preponderance of prohibition sentiment of 7 to 1. This is a significant hint of the tone of the public mind on the question of the elimination of alcoholic drink.

While the necessarily slow process of legislative ratification of the constitutional amendment is in progress there is another and more immediate pressing aspect of this great question that demands attention. The food problem that confronts this country is a critical one. We must feed our allies. That is one of our most vital functions in the great war. Meanwhile we must not starve ourselves. That way lies national inefficiency.

As people we have responded cheerfully and wholeheartedly to the proposals of our Food Controller as to personal sacrifice in the use of foodstuffs. Thrice a week we go without wheat products; thrice a week we go without meat; once a week without pork. We have learned to mix with our precious white flour

CHAPTER I.

The Crown Prince Runs Away.
The Crown Prince sat in the royal box and swung his legs. This was hardly princely, but the royal legs did not quite reach the floor from the high crimson-velvet seat of his chair.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto was bored. His royal robes, consisting of a pair of blue serge trousers, a short Eton jacket, and a stiff, rolling collar of white linen, irked him.

He had been brought to the opera house under a misapprehension. His aunt, the Archduchess Annunziata, had strongly advocated "The Flying Dutchman," and his English governess, Miss Braithwaite, had read him some inspiring literature about it. So here he was, and the Flying Dutchman was not ghostly at all, nor did it fly. And instead of flying, after dreary cons of singing, it was moved off on creaky rollers by men whose shadows were thrown grotesquely on the sea backing.

The orchestra, assisted by a bass solo and intermittent thunder in the wings, was making a deafening din. One of the shadows on the sea backing took out its handkerchief and wiped its nose.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto looked across at the other royal box, and caught his Cousin Hedwig's eye. She also had seen the handkerchief; she took out her own scrap of linen, and mimicked the shadow. Then, Her Royal Highness the Archduchess Annunziata being occupied with the storm, she winked across at Prince Ferdinand William Otto.

In the opposite box were his two cousins, the Princesses Hedwig and Hilda, attended by Hedwig's lady in waiting. Hedwig was eighteen. The crown prince liked Hedwig better than Hilda. Although she had been introduced formally to the court at the Christmas-eve ball, and had been duly presented by her grandfather, the king, with the usual string of pearls and her own carriage, she still ran off now and then to have tea with the crown prince and Miss Braithwaite in the school room at the palace; and she could eat a great deal of bread and butter.

The crown prince yawned, although it was but the middle of the afternoon. Catching Hedwig's eye, he ran his fingers up through his thick yellow hair and grinned. Hedwig blushed. She had confided to him once, while they were walking in the garden at the summer palace, that she was thinking of being in love with a young lieutenant who was attached to the king's suite. The prince—who was called Otto, for short, by the family, because he actually had eleven names—the prince had been much interested. For some time afterward he had bothered Miss Braithwaite to define being in love, but he had had no really satisfactory answer.

In pursuance of his quest for information, he had grown quite friendly with the young officer, whose name was Larisch, and had finally asked to have him ride with him at the royal riding school. The grim old king had granted the request, but it had been quite fruitless so far after all. Lieutenant Larisch only grew quite red as to the ears when love was mentioned, although he appeared not unwilling to hear Hedwig's name.

So now Ferdinand William Otto ran his fingers through his fair hair, which was a favorite gesture of the lieutenant's, and Hedwig blushed. The archduchess, sitting well back, was nodding. Just outside the royal box, on the red velvet sofa, General Mettlich, who was the chancellor, and had come because he had been invited and stayed outside because he said he liked to hear music, not see it, was sound asleep. His martial bosom, with its gold braid, was rising and falling peacefully. Beside him lay the prince's crown, a small black derby hat.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto considered it all very wearisome. If one could only wander around the corridor or buy a sandwich from the stand at the foot of the great staircase—or, better still, if one could only get to the street, alone, and purchase one of the fig women that Miss Braithwaite so despised! The crown prince felt in his pocket, where his week's allowance of pocket money lay comfortably untouched.

He meditated. He could go out quickly, and be back before they knew it. Even if he only wandered about the corridor, it would stretch his short legs. And outside it was a fine day. It looked already like spring.

With the trepidation of a canary who finds his cage door open, and, hopping to the threshold, surveys the world before venturing to explore it, Prince Ferdinand William Otto rose to his feet, tiptoed past the Archduchess Annunziata, who did not move, and looked around him from the doorway.

He picked up his hat and concealed it by his side. Then nonchalantly, as if to stretch his legs by walking ten feet up the corridor and back, he passed the dressing room door. Another moment, and he was out of sight around a bend of the passageway, and before him lay liberty.

Not quite! At the top of the private staircase reserved for the royal family a guard commonly stood. He had moved a few feet from his post, however, and was watching the stage through the half-open door of a private loge.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto passed behind him with outward calmness. At the top of the public staircase, however, he hesitated. Here, everywhere, were brass-buttoned officials of the opera house. A garden-robe woman stared at him curiously. The little prince looked at the woman with appeal in his eyes. Then, with his heart thumping, he ran past her, down the white marble staircase, to where the great doors promised liberty.

Oiga, the wardrobe woman, came out from behind her counter and stood looking down the marble staircase after the small flying figure.

The old soldier who rented opera glasses at the second landing, and who had left a leg in Bosnia, leaned over the railing. "Look at that!" he exclaimed. "He will break a leg, the young rascal! Once I could have—but there, he is safe! The good God watches over fools and children."

"It looked like the little prince," said the wardrobe woman. "I have seen him often—he has the same bright hair."

But the opera-glass man was not listening. He had drawn a long sausage from one pocket and a roll from the other, and now, retiring to a far window, he stood placidly eating—a bite of sausage, a bite of bread. His mind was in Bosnia, with his leg. And because old Adelbert's mind was in Bosnia, and because one hears with the mind, and not with the ear, he did not hear the sharp question of the sentry who ran down the stairs and paused for a second at the cloak-room. Well for Oiga, too, that old Adelbert did not hear her reply.

"He has not passed here," she said, with wide and honest eyes, but with an ear toward old Adelbert. "An old gentleman came a moment ago and got a sandwich, which he had left in his overcoat. Perhaps this is whom you are seeking?"

The sentry cursed, and ran down the staircase, the nails in his shoes striking sharply on the marble.

Oiga of the cloak room leaned over her checks, with her lips curved up in a smile. "The little one!" she thought. "And such courage! He will make a great king! Let him have his prank like the other children, and—God bless him and keep him!"

The crown prince was just a trifle dazzled by the brilliance of his success. He paused for one breathless moment under the porte-cochere of the opera house; then he took a long breath, turned to the left; and was at once swallowed up in the street crowd. It seemed very strange to him. Not that he was unaccustomed to crowds. Had he not, that very Christmas, gone shopping in the city, accompanied only by one of his tutors and Miss Braithwaite, and bought for his grandfather, the king, a burnt wood box, which might hold either neckties or gloves, and for his cousins silver photograph frames?

But this was different, and for a rather peculiar reason. Prince Ferdinand William Otto had never seen the back of a crowd! The public was always lined up, facing him, smiling and bowing and God-blessing him. Prince Ferdinand William Otto had never known the backs could be so rigid. It was most interesting.

The next tour was full of remarkable things. For one, he dodged behind a street car and was almost run over by a taxicab. The policeman on the corner came out, and taking Ferdinand William Otto by the shoulder, gave him a talking to and a shaking. Ferdinand William Otto was furious, but policy kept him silent; which proves conclusively that the crown prince had not only initiative—witness his flight—but self-control and diplomacy. Lucky country, to have in prospect such a king!

Prince Ferdinand William Otto had the fulfillment of a great desire in his small, active mind. This was nothing less than a ride on the American scenic railroad, which had secured a concession in a far corner of the park. Hedwig's lieutenant had described it to him—how one was taken in a small car to a dizzy height, and then turned loose on a track which dropped giddily and rose again, which hurried one through sheet-iron tunnels of incredible thickness, thrust one out over a gorge, whirled one in mad curves around corners of precipitous heights, and finally landed one, panting, breathless, shocked, and reeling, but safe, at the very platform where one had purchased one's ticket three eternities, which were only three short minutes, before. As the early spring twilight fell, the gas lamps along the aisle, always burning, made a twin row of pale stars ahead. At the end, even as the wanderer gazed, he saw myriads of tiny red, white, and blue lights, rising high in the air, outlining the crags and peaks of the sheet iron mountain which was his destination. The land of desire was very near!

There came to his ears, too, the occasional rumble that told of some palpitating soul being at that moment hurried and twisted and joyously thrilled, as per the lieutenant's description.

Now it is a strange thing, but true, that one does not reach the land of desire alone; because the half of pleasure is the sharing of it with some one else, and the land of desire, alone, is not the land of desire at all. Quite suddenly, Prince Ferdinand William Otto discovered that he was lonely. At that moment there was a soft whirling off to one side of him, and a yellow bird, rising and falling erratically on the breeze, careened suddenly and fell at his feet.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto bent down and picked it up. It was a small toy aeroplane, with yellow silk planes, guy ropes of waxed thread, and a wooden rudder, its motive power vested in a tightly twisted rubber. One of the wings was bent. Ferdinand William Otto straightened it, and looked around for the owner.

A small boy was standing under the next gas lamp. "Gee!" he said in English. "Did you see it go that time?"

Prince Ferdinand William Otto eyed the stranger. He was about his own age, and was dressed in a short pair of corduroy trousers, much bloomed at the knee, a pair of yellow Russian-leather shoes that reached well to his calves, and, over all, a shaggy white sweater, rolling almost to his chin. On the very back of his head he had the smallest cap that Prince Ferdinand William Otto had ever seen.

"Gee! Did You See It Go That Time?"

"This is the best time for flying," he said, in his perfect English. "All the exhibition flights are at sundown."

The boy walked slowly over and stood looking down at him. "You ought to see it fly from the top of Pike's Peak!" he remarked. He had caught sight of the despised derby, and his eyes widened, but with instinctive good breeding he ignored it. "That's Pike's Peak up there."

He indicated the very top of the land of desire. The prince stared up.

"How does one get up?" he queried. "Ladders. My father's the quartermaster. He lets me up sometimes."

Prince Ferdinand William Otto stared with new awe at the boy. He found the fact much more remarkable than if the stranger had stated that his father was the king of England. Kings were, as you may say, directly in Prince Ferdinand William Otto's line, but scenic railroads—

"I had thought of taking a journey on it," he said, after a second's reflection. "Do you think your father will sell me a ticket?"

"Billy Grimm will. I'll go with you." The prince rose with alacrity. Then he stopped. He must, of course, ask the strange boy to be his guest. But two tickets! Perhaps his allowance was not sufficient.

"I must see first how much it costs," he said with dignity.

The other boy laughed. "Oh, gee! You come with me. It won't cost anything," he said, and led the way toward the towering lights.

For Bobby Thorpe to bring a small boy to ride with him was an everyday affair. Billy Grimm, at the ticket window, hardly glanced at the boy who stood, trembling with anticipation, in the shadow of the booth.

The car came, and they climbed in. Perhaps, as they moved off, Prince Ferdinand William Otto had a qualm, occasioned by the remembrance of the English child who had met an untimely end; but if he did, he pluckily hid it.

"Put your lid on the floor of the car," said Bobby Thorpe, depositing his own atop there. "Father says, if you do that, you're perfectly safe."

Prince Ferdinand William Otto divined that this referred to his hat, and drew a small breath of relief. And then they were off, up an endless, clicking roadway, where at the top the car hung for a breathless second over the gulf below; then, fairly launched, out on a trestle, with the city far beneath them, and only the red, white, and blue lights for company; and into a tunnel, filled with roaring noises and swift-moving shadows. Then came the end of all things—a flying leap down, a heart-breaking, delicious thrill, an upward sweep just as the strain was too great for endurance.

Above the roaring of the wind in their ears, neither child had heard the flying feet of a dozen horses coming down the alley. They never knew that a hatless young lieutenant, white-lipped with fear, had checked his horse to its haunches at the ticket booth, and demanded to know who was in the land of desire.

"Only the son of the manager, and a boy friend of his," replied Billy Grimm, in what he called the lingo of the country. "What's wrong? Lost anybody?"

But Hedwig's lieutenant had wheeled his horse without a word, and, jumping him over the hedge of the alley, was off in a despairing search of the outskirts of the park, followed by his cavalymen.

As the last horse leaped the hedge and disappeared, the car came to a stop at the platform. Quivering, Prince Ferdinand William Otto reached down for the despised hat.

"Would you like to go around again?" asked Bobby, quite casually. His highness gasped with joy. "If—if you would be so kind!" he said.

And at the lordly wave of Bobby's hand, the car moved on.

FALSE RUMORS SHAKE BRITAIN

Irresponsible Talk Is the Worst
Form of Enemy Propaganda.

PEACE BRIBE TO BERLIN

Thousand Asas Loaded With Pure
Gold Reported to Be Sent—Wild
Tale of Fight Between Two Kiltie Regiments.

London.—The most deadly form of German propaganda in Great Britain today is the mouth to mouth rumor. Wherever one goes, in clubs or restaurants, at the theater or in the railway car, one's peace of mind will be irretrievably shattered by some kindly intentioned stranger.

The keep of the London Tower has been overcrowded with riddled corpses to a positively unsanitary degree. Now it will be an alman of worldwide renown. The next day an ex-lord chancellor of the realm will toe the line following him; King George will have his Germanic extinction flung in his teeth, and an ex-prime minister receive the welcome news that he has sold the country to save his financial interests in the enemy's country. Your true propagandist is no respecter of persons.

Of Eastern Origin.

There was one story of distinct Eastern origin. Great Britain, ran the rumor by way of kindly neutrals, had sent a thousand asses laden with pure gold as a peace bribe to Berlin. A later effort, told with due pathos and dramatic effect, concerned the loss of a large American transport, which had been sent down by a German U-boat, with a total loss of life and material. The rumor was common property, with, perhaps, the possible exception of the American naval authorities.

"Thousands of Woolwich arsenal workers, unable to obtain food, were rioting furiously, and the troops had to be called out," was the preface to another. Inquiry showed the case to be that of a woman of inebriate habits and revolutionary tendencies, a misapprehension with a local police constable and a sympathetic crowd, hungry and disappointed, supplied the necessary background and climax.

Another case was that of two kiltie regiments. The — Highlanders, holding the left flank of a big advance movement, were to have been supported at 5 a. m. of a freezing winter morning by the Black Watch. The latter failed to put in an appearance. The Highlanders, sadly mauled by shrapnel and machine guns, returned to rest billets at quarter strength and swearing vengeance dire. On the road the Black Watch was encountered. Forthwith the two battalions set about one another with their dirks and bayonets, looting the dead and dying by the roadside in the hundreds. This story to the troops individually concerned proved extremely unacceptable from its humorous element alone.

CUTS COST OF CHILD BIRTH

Association in Boston Reduces Price of Bringing Babies Into the World to $25.

Boston.—The cost of bringing babies into the world in Boston has been reduced to $25. Hooverization!

Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, the only woman president of the American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality, has fixed the price through the establishment of a pre-natal and obstetrical clinic.

The expectant mother who pays $25 receives a preliminary examination by a physician with a nurse assisting. The woman is visited every ten days by a nurse and, after confinement, receives the expert attention of the physician and nurse until she is entirely recovered.

"WHEN MULE SETS ON MY TUMMY, I'M DONE"

Camp Sheridan, Ala.—"Lissen," quoth Stable Sergeant Western, Co. A, 112th Engineers, U. S. A.

The stable sergeant and a first lieutenant were discussing mules and other company affairs.

"I don't want a disrespectful, or nothin'," Western continued, "but I can't do nothin' more than what I have done to keep them mules quiet, I'm a horse-man, I am. I was raised with horses. I've rode so many horses I'm half horse myself. But when it comes to mules, it's different. I just can't seem to get used to gettin' to sleep and then about three o'clock having some long-eared son-of-a-four-legged callop come around and set down on my stomach. I just can't stand it and one of these days I'm goin' to get sore and kill me a jackass, if I get court-martialed for it."

The lieutenant withheld the reprimand he had been ordered to administer to the sergeant because Company A's mules got into a nocturnal argument and woke up everybody in the regiment.

HARDINSBURG

Rev. Phillips Ryan, Irvington, was a visitor in town last Thursday. While here he attended the revival meeting at the M. E. church, South.

Judge J. R. Layman, Elizabethtown, was here last week and finished trying some cases that were left from Circuit Court.
